

Putting a Collar on Your Pet

It can be difficult to place the first collar on your new pet --Keep in mind that collars do not expand, but puppies grow quickly! If not loosened, collars can literally grow into your pet's neck -- an excruciating, constant pain. So check your pet's collar at least every week until it is full-grown (that can be more than a year for large breeds). You should be able to easily slip two or three fingers between the collar and your pet's neck. However, don't let this simple task stop you from putting a collar and an ID tag on your pet, just in case it slips by you and gets lost.
